Annual Report
The University of Toledo Foundation

Dear Friends of The University of Toledo,

Lloyd A. Jacobs, M.D.

A lot can change in one year.

John F. Kennedy once said: “Change is the law of life. And those who look only to the past or present are certain to miss the future.”

These words seem only appropriate given what has taken place within The University of Toledo Foundation this year.

One year ago, The University of Toledo was a newly merged entity, with two separate foundations providing support and guidance. At the time, I supported the notion of continuing forward with two foundations. However, like President Kennedy noted, “change is the law of life,” and I had a change of heart as we began to look beyond the past or even the present, and focused on the future of this great new University; examining the type of foundation we would need to succeed.

Effective July 1, 2007, there is one UT Foundation - a single, unified voice that is helping us to shape our future. It is certainly a bright one.

Among our institution’s key initiatives is the UT Science and Technology Corridor. Through this effort, we are working to help transform the areas around campus and influence the economic climate in the city of Toledo. We are working to bring business and industry together with our intellectual capital to develop new products and improve the human condition in northwest Ohio.

You will hear much more about the UT Science and Technology Corridor in the months and years to come, as The University of Toledo and the UT Foundation move down this road together, in a partnership that could change Toledo and enhance the quality of life across the region. It is our way of giving back to our community, showcasing our desire to make a difference in the lives of the citizens that have helped us achieve our successes.

Through private gifts to the University, many of you have shown your desire to make a difference. Let me thank you for your generosity. But let me also tell you that your patronage will not only benefit the UT of today, but it will reap dividends for years to come, in the hearts and minds of the students we educate and prepare for success of their own.

Thank you for your continued support of The University of Toledo.

President

Dear Friends of The University of Toledo,

Brenda S. Lee and Michael J. Todak

Private donations from alumni and friends are the lifeblood of The University of Toledo. Your generous giving allows the University to overcome challenges, take advantage of opportunities and improve the lives of people throughout northwest Ohio and beyond.

The goal of any institutionally related institution, also, is to provide financial support for an organization's current and future needs. Throughout their histories, the UT and MUO Foundations focused on just that: working with donors to achieve mutual goals and seeking investment opportunities to enhance the programs and services of their respective organizations.

Following the merger of The University of Toledo and the Medical University of Ohio in July 2006, the two foundations began assessing their objectives. The result was a decision by the two organizations, embraced by the newly merged University, that the Foundations should merge.

That merger became effective July 1, 2007. We are pleased that the new UT Foundation is now the official gift-receiving organization for the merged University. As such, the UT Foundation will provide a single vehicle for supporting the students, faculty, staff and patients on all UT campuses.

Our merged board of trustees and staff have begun evaluating policies and procedures to better serve the larger and more diverse University community. We have already hired a master custodian and investment consultant, and adopted a new investment policy to maximize the value of your gifts.

Our streamlined operations will allow you to continue to designate your donation to the area or purpose of your choice, including the Main Campus, Health Science Campus, and UT Medical Center. And our focus, as was the goal of each organization prior to the merger, is on donor stewardship.

With combined assets of approximately $200 million, more than 1,000 individual endowed funds to manage and an alumni base now totaling nearly 130,000, the next year will be one of great effort and excitement.

We're pleased to call you a partner in our taking the new University of Toledo to the next level of excellence.

Sincerely,

Michael J. Todak
Chair
The University of Toledo Foundation Board of Trustees

Brenda S. Lee
President
The University of Toledo Foundation

History does indeed repeat itself.

Just one year after the merger of The University of Toledo and the Medical University of Ohio, the two universities' philanthropic organizations have also united, resulting in one official gift-receiving organization to serve the entire University community. The new UT Foundation will provide a single vehicle for private donations and investments to benefit the merged university.

The merger of the former MUO and UT foundations, effective July 1, 2007, was a "historic day for the University and the two foundations," according to UT Foundation Board Chair Mike Todak. "With this single, united organization, we will be better positioned to support the students, faculty, patients and programs of the entire University," he said. "I'm excited about the opportunities we have going forward."

Through a combined board of trustees and Foundation staff, the new UT Foundation will focus on serving the needs of all University campuses and programs. These include all academic areas and departments, administrative and student services, outreach efforts and the UT Medical Center.

Noting that progress requires change, Mr. Todak said the newly merged Foundation has already elected officers, approved a new code of regulations and adopted a revised investment policy. In addition, the joint investment committee has hired an investment consultant and a master custodian to oversee joint assets.

The new organization will commence with a combined board of 42 trustees, he said, with each bringing an array of personal skills, professional expertise and institutional history to their posts. "We are fortunate to have an incredible group of trustees, and the merger allows us to capitalize on each individual's strengths and skills."

Board terms outlined in a newly adopted code of regulations will eventually reduce board membership to 31 or less, a more manageable number that Mr. Todak said will allow trustees to be more actively engaged. Gradual attrition through term limits will also ensure continued, strong representation from both original foundation boards.

Newly elected officers include two trustees from each former board, and committee chairs also reflect representation from both organizations. "Though we now have a unified mission, we also understand the importance of preserving continuity and a sense of history on the board," Mr. Todak explained.

The former UT Foundation's president, Brenda Lee, will continue to oversee the organization, with an increased focus on strategic planning. Daily operations will be supervised by Sabrina Taylor, the new vice president for finance and operations. Ms. Taylor served as administrative director for the former MUO Foundation.

Attrition and restructuring will reduce staffing to 17 employees, from the two organizations' former total of 22 employees. "Realigning job responsibilities and combining office space will mean a reduction in total operational costs over time," said Ms. Lee. "The result will be a more efficient use of personnel and resources."

The new staff includes ten employees from the UT Foundation and seven from the MUO Foundation. The integrated staff will ensure continuity in stewardship of gifts and individually managed funds, she said.

"As we assess and fine-tune office policies and procedures, the next year is likely to be a transitional period," said Ms. Lee. "Ultimately, we're confident that this new, integrated staff will help our donors more effectively aid the mission of the University."

The Foundation merger was supported by UT President Lloyd Jacobs, who called the merger signing "one of the greatest days in the life of this institution."

Dr. Jacobs said the uniting of the foundations was an important step in UT's future. "I believe we are on the right course, and the future is bright for this combined institution," he said.

John Neff Makes Major Investment in UT

John B. Neff

Success generally requires a good deal of talent and perseverance, plus a dab of good luck. Such was the case with John B. Neff (Bus '55), renowned leader in international finance.

His skill was inherent, and his perseverance became apparent while he was an undergraduate student in UT's College of Business Administration. The good luck came more disguised: when a Wall Street employer suggested he first take a job as a security analyst, "until you get the sound of authority in your voice."

He followed that advice, heading back to Cleveland where he found a job as a security analyst with National City Bank. "Here, I found what I really wanted to do," he said.

It was more than sheer luck of occupation, however, that enabled him to later manage the Vanguard Windsor Fund, beating the market 22 of 31 years and eventually being named "one of the 10 most influential investors of the 20th century" by Barron's Magazine.

Investment skill aside, Mr. Neff thanks UT for providing him with the foundation for his success. "I blossomed at TU, as they called it in those days. I really put it together finally."

He consequently shared his expertise with the world in 1999 by co-authoring John Neff on Investing, a text still popular today among universities and the world of finance. Meanwhile, he and his wife Lilli also began sharing their own personal financial success. The couple's $500,000 gift established the Neff Scholars Jump Start Program, providing guidance and support for incoming UT business students. In 2003, their $1 million endowed gift created the John B. and Lillian Neff Trading Floor, an action-learning lab connecting UT students to the world stock exchanges.

And in June 2007, the couple made an additional personal investment of $4 million in UT, the largest gift in the College of Business Administration's history. Half will fund a faculty chair in UT's department of finance, and the rest is a bequest gift to benefit the department's programs and students in future years.

"This gift will provide us the opportunity to recruit an outstanding individual to complement the faculty," said Dr. Thomas Gutteridge, Dean of the College of Business Administration. The bequest portion of the Neffs' contribution, like their previous gifts, will serve as a "building block" for the College.

"It's an important part of our strategy to be the business school of choice for students and for the business community," said Dr. Gutteridge, "helping to put our graduates a notch above the competition as they enter the job market."

Vern Snyder, UT vice president for Institutional Advancement, said the contribution demonstrates "the power of transformational giving, giving that takes the institution to the next level and that changes, in a tangible way, the learning experience for University of Toledo students."

For Mr. Neff, the major gift is simply a gesture of gratitude. "It was here that it all started for me," he said. "So in some small way, I'm giving something back."

Nitschke Name Synonymous with Innovation

Norman Nitschke

As a co-founder of such companies as Glasstech and Solar Cells, Norman Nitschke has been at the forefront of technology-based business ventures in northwest Ohio. Not only has he made a mark on the world of engineering, but his philanthropic support has had an equally significant impact.

For The University of Toledo, that has included more than $2 million in previous gifts, and the engineering building and the auditorium proudly bear the names of Nitschke Hall and the Lois and Norman Nitschke Auditorium, respectively. Now in 2007, Mr. Nitschke and his family have once again stepped up to make another generous gift of $1.5 million to the College of Engineering.

Though he spent less than two years as a UT student before entering military service and then completing two degrees at The University of Michigan, Mr. Nitschke has seen first-hand UT's role in research, education and economic development. "UT's cooperation with the private sector in research and job training is important," he said.

The newest gift from the Nitschke family will support a new technology commercialization facility, focusing on alternative energy and other research commercialization activities. The university's new economic development complex, expected to be in service by spring 2009, will be prominently connected in the future to the Lois and Norman Nitschke Auditorium.

The gift to the College of Engineering helps the university provide matching funds for a recent $2 million economic development grant from the U.S. Department of Commerce. The grant application was submitted through the efforts of Chuck Lehnert of the UT Office of Facilities and Construction and Dr. Frank Calzonetti of the Office of Research, with another $1 million provided by the State of Ohio.

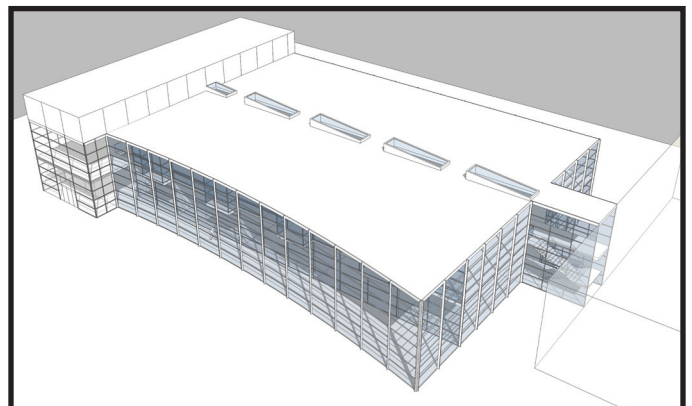

Mr. Nitschke believes areas of specialty are what set universities apart, making them distinctive and successful. Though he believes other academic colleges at UT are also "booming," he feels the College of Engineering has particular potential. "I believe the College will become one of the top engineering schools in the country," he said.

The new building, aimed at alternative energy and other research to be commercialized, will help attract outstanding faculty, which attracts outstanding students, noted Mr. Nitschke. In addition, he said the facility will link production and engineering firms who sponsor research there with engineering students being trained for their workforces.

Mr. Nitschke's son, Steve, said the entire family was supportive of the gift decision. "All four of Dad's sons are engineers and his daughter has a computer science degree, so we're all technical people, too. We understand his interest in helping the College of Engineering participate in the development of the Science and Technology Corridor and contribute to the area's future," he said. "For the area to move into the future and change into the future, you need technology, and you need engineers to help the area develop and build. A strong college of engineering can be a big benefit."

"A culture of innovation requires people of vision, talents and resources creating the right combination of message, faculty and facilities," said Dr. Nagi Naganathan, dean of the College of Engineering. "Thanks to Mr. Nitschke and his family, we are now able to create a transformative environment that will sustain a culture of innovation."

"The complex will be one of the focal points of the UT Science and Technology Corridor," he said, "helping the college create an advanced materials and energy theme park where we will nurture a seamless integration of education, research, outreach, and commercialization."

Your support of The University of Toledo—whether to the Annual Fund or capital campaign—remains more important than ever as we work together to make UT a university of distinction.

UNRESTRICTED GIFTS

Unrestricted gifts, given with no specified purpose, are especially encouraged. These allow the University flexibility to seize special opportunities and meet emergency needs. Income from unrestricted endowments is used for priority needs determined by the University.

DESIGNATED GIFTS

Donors may designate gifts for a particular academic division of the University. Gifts restricted for a specific use, such as scholarships, may also be designated for a particular college, department or program. We can work with you to meet your goals.

OUTRIGHT GIFTS AND PLEDGES

Gifts of Cash: Cash is the simplest, most direct and most popular type of charitable gift. Checks should be made payable to:

The University of Toledo Foundation
P. O. Box 586
Toledo, OH 43697-0586

Pledges: Donors may make pledge commitments payable over several years.

Securities: Gifts of stocks, mutual funds and bonds may be made to the UT Foundation. Call the Foundation at 410-530-7730 to learn how securities can be transferred. When gifting appreciated securities, you avoid capital gains tax on the appreciated portion.

Closely Held Stock in Business or Partnership or LLC

Interests: Gifting this appreciated property can reduce capital gains taxes while generating charitable income tax deductions. Proceeds from the sale or redemption of stock can benefit a UT fund or program of your choice.

Real Estate: Gifts of real estate include personal residence, farm and commercial property. Such gifts will be counted at fair market value as determined by a qualified appraisal, subject to IRS rules and regulations, and you can avoid capital gains on the sale.

Matching Gifts: Corporate matches count toward a donor's total giving and may significantly increase the gift's value.

PLANNED GIFTS

Planned gifts allow donors to make a significant gift to benefit UT in the future, typically at the donor's or beneficiary's death. The Foundation welcomes the opportunity to work with donors and their legal and financial advisers to arrange planned gifts.

Planned gifts may offer donors tax advantages and financial benefits, such as providing current income tax deductions, removing assets from your estate and producing income. Donors should consult with their own advisers as to specific tax consequences.

Bequests: Bequest provisions in a donor's will may provide for a specific amount, percentage or residue of the estate.

Charitable Remainder Trusts: This trust provides income to the donor or other beneficiaries for life or a term of years, leaving the remainder to the UT Foundation.

Charitable Gift Annuities: A donor transfers a gift of cash or marketable securities to the Foundation. In exchange, the Foundation contractually guarantees to pay a fixed income to the donor and/or another beneficiary for life.

Life Insurance Policies: Donor may either donate a paid-up policy or designate the UT Foundation as policy owner and beneficiary while continuing to make an annual gift of the premium amount to the Foundation.

IRA and Other Retirement Plans: By naming the Foundation as the beneficiary, estate and income taxes are completely avoided on these assets. The donor can designate other, more tax-efficient, assets for children.

We can help you connect your goals with effective giving options. For more information:
